General Principles

- Holistically designed and implemented frameworks and processes
- All-of-government approaches

- 1 Achievement of national goals through integrated planning (rather than single-purpose mandates) and, as a corollary:
- 2 Cooperation between national and local governments (rather than coercion);
- 3 Regulation of environmental outcomes of activities – consequences (rather than the activities themselves);
- 4 National (and state) efforts at building local capability (rather than hoping local implementation will occur on its own); and
- 5 Citizen participation in setting the agenda (rather than bureaucratic decision making).
